To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Seven years ago [illegible] all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES [illegible] the great Skin Cure, and [illegible] an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, the small ones gradually disappeared [illegible] about two weeks discharging large quantities of matter [illegible] I am strong and [illegible] day to tell [illegible]

IRISH HOME RULE.

Blaine Addresses a Meeting at Portland, Me.

A STATEMENT OF IRELAND'S WOES

PORTLAND, Me., June 1.—The home rule meeting in city hall to-night attracted an immense throng. Many ladies occupied seats in the gallery. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Chapman, who introduced Gov. Robie as chairman of the meeting. The governor spoke briefly, concluding by introducing Rev. J. A. McKenna, of Marlboro, Mass. At the close of the latter's remarks James G. Blaine appeared upon the platform, accompanied by President [illegible]. Blaine was greeted with tremendous applause. He spoke substantially as follows:

[illegible] after the publication of the call for this meeting I received a letter from a respectable citizen in an adjacent county asking me [illegible] I could just what the Irish question [illegible] appreciate the question or [illegible] explanation of the question that calls forth so much sympathy [illegible] of the world at large [illegible] opposition among [illegible] directly interested. There [illegible] giving attention [illegible] elementary facts of the case. Now what is home rule? Why, it is what every state and territory of the United States enjoys [illegible] what Ireland does not [illegible] parliament of 658 members Great Britain has [illegible] and accept with the consent of that parliament Ireland cannot [illegible] a street railway [laughter] or a horse railroad [illegible] or a ferry over a stream [laughter] [illegible] implies legislative powers. Now suppose we bring that [illegible] the state of Maine should be [illegible] with the state of New York, relatively as large with the state of Maine as England [illegible] is with Ireland, and our beautiful [illegible] its own improvement [illegible] organize an association [illegible] charter a company of any kind unless the overwhelming galaxy of the New York [illegible] consent. How long do [illegible] think the people of Maine would stand it [Applause.]

[illegible] question between England and Ireland [illegible] there is a great fact in addition [illegible] apply to New York and Maine, that there are centuries of wrong which have [illegible] hatred on the part of those who are [illegible] oppression, and which have aggravated the [illegible] between Ireland and Great Britain far [illegible] limits that would be found between New York and Maine.

A REMEDY [illegible]

[illegible] if the question were left to the United States to decide we should say, "Adopt the [illegible] system. Have your legislature for Ireland, your legislature for Wales, your legislature for Scotland, and your imperial parliament for the British empire [illegible] questions that are Irish [illegible] settled by Irishmen [illegible] questions that are English [illegible] settled by English [illegible] Welsh be settled by Welsh [illegible] that are Scotch be settled by Scotchmen [Applause.] Let questions that affect the whole [illegible] of Great Britain be settled by parliament in which parliament the four great constituents shall be represented [Applause.] I say that would be the short hand method of settling the question, for we have lived that way for nearly one hundred years in the United States of America [Applause.] I do not forget, however, that it would be political [illegible] to attempt by any prescription to give an exact measure [illegible] details of any measure that should settle this [illegible] dispute between Great Britain and Ireland. I am admonished by what I have noticed in the British parliament in discussions concerning America not to be too forward in knowledge or details or in prescribing exact measures, because I suppose they would retort that we know quite as little about their [illegible] troubles as they know about ours. Therefore I do not stand here simply to say that Mr Gladstone's [illegible] a perfect measure. I do not stand here to say that I even could give you the exact details of that measure. I do not say that I ever took time to examine [illegible] but I say that I am in favor of any bill that shall take the first step toward righting wrong, and of handing over government to Ireland.

Lord Salisbury says if the Irish do not wish to be governed by the British they should leave. But the Irish have been in Ireland quite as long as Lord Salisbury's ancestors have been in England [laughter] and very likely, for aught I know, for I have not examined his lordship's lineage in Burke's peerage, very likely his ancestors were [illegible] pirates or [illegible] in Normandy who came over with William the Conqueror centuries after the Irish people were known in Ireland.

THE RELIGIOUS ASPECT

Further on Blaine said: "If the home rule bill pass and a Dublin parliament be granted, there never was an association of men since human government was instituted which assumed power with greater responsibility to public opinion than the men who will compose that parliament, because if they are allowed to form it, it will be by reason of pressure of public opinion of the world. [Applause.] And I know that the Catholics of Ireland and the Presbyterians of Ireland can live and do just as the Catholics of the United States and the Presbyterians of the United States live. [Applause.] Citizens of one country each giving to the other perfect right of conscience, each declining to interfere in any manner with the perfect liberty of the other. [Applause.] In the year 1880 Ireland produced 4,000,000 bushels of wheat, but wheat is not the crop of Ireland. She produced eight million bushels of barley, but barley is not one of the great crops of Ireland. Now we begin to strike into the next item to which she is especially adapted. She produced [illegible] bushels of oats. The next item I think every one will recognize as it is peculiarly adapted to Ireland. Of potatoes she produced 110,000,000 of bushels [applause] within [illegible] of the whole product of the United States. She produced turnips and marigold, put together, 85,000,000 bushels. She produced of flax 60,000,000 pounds. She produced of cabbage [illegible] pounds. She produced of hay [illegible] tons. She had on her thousand hills and in her valleys over 4,000,000 head of cattle. In the same pasture she had [illegible] head of sheep. She had [illegible] horses and 210,000 asses and mules. During the year 1880 she exported to England over [illegible] head of cattle, over [illegible] sheep and nearly [illegible] swine. And no [illegible] that territory no [illegible] as the state of Maine [illegible] of this [illegible] abundance [illegible] which has scarcely been known since the richness of Goshen, there are [illegible] in want of food who appeal to the charity of the stranger. Why should this be in a land that produces [illegible] abundantly? Why should [illegible] The great law giver [illegible] ordered that "thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn" and St. Paul added [illegible] Timothy, "The laborer is worthy of his hire." [Applause.] And yet [illegible] the men who are producing those great results [illegible] the [illegible] are absolutely in want of sufficient food.

THE REASON

I don't think it is difficult to find the reason. Seven hundred and twenty-nine men own one half the land in Ireland, and the other half is owned by about 500 more, and of rural farm land there are but 13,000 owners in all, whereas there are 1,250,000 adult males in Ireland. I produce the condition of affairs in Maine—in New England—to-morrow and the distress here would be as great as the distress has been in Ireland.

Now Mr. Gladstone says this condition of affairs must cease, and the men who till the soil in Ireland must be allowed to purchase and hold it. [Applause.] But I did not tell the whole story. On this land, as the British authority [illegible] gives [illegible] persons own over four-fifths [illegible] they take from the tenantry that cultivate the land $[illegible] of rental per annum. Now mark you [illegible] asking of a little land not so large as Maine and they pay a rental of $[illegible] per annum, and then they pay an imperial tax of $[illegible] and a local tax of $[illegible] more. There are $116,000,000 to be wrought out of the bone and flesh and spirit of the Irish peasant, and he is under burdens crushed and down trodden. [Applause.] I believe the day has dawned for his deliverance. [Great applause.] From the excellence of Ireland it is [illegible] it is not wise to be too sanguine of speedy result. I therefore for one shall not be disappointed to see Mr Gladstone's bill defeated in this parliament. English members can do it, but there is one thing which English members cannot do, they cannot defeat public opinion of the civilized world. [Applause.] And Lord Hartington made a very remarkable admission when in a complaining tone he accused Gladstone of having conceded so much that the Irish would never take less. [Applause.] Well, I do not know that a [illegible] year or next year that the final settlement shall be made, but I have entire and absolute confidence that it will never be made on any other terms as Mr Gladstone now offers if his bill are defeated. [Applause.] Now, if I had any word of advice to give, or if I was in a position that would authorize me to give advice, it would be this: That the time has come and is coming that would probably try the patience and mettle of the Irish people more severely than [illegible] any other stage of the progress of their [illegible] struggle, and my advice is that by all means and with every means [illegible] that can be used [illegible] all acts of violence. [illegible] [Applause.] You have earned the consolidated opinion of the Christian world that believes in free government. Do not have it divided [illegible] of imprudence produce a reaction."

In conclusion Blaine said: "I have only one word more to say, and that word is that the Irish people of this country [illegible] be stilled as [illegible] our own political [illegible]

as at enmity with their cause who seeks to use it for personal or for partisan advancement. [Applause.] And in that spirit you can in the language of that most eloquent Irishman, Edmund Burke [Applause], attest the justice of your cause to the retiring generation. You can attest to the advancing generation that when we stand in the link of the chain of eternal order you can justify your policy before every tribunal. You can carry it with confidence before the judgment day of God." [Long continued applause.]

IN THE COMMONS

LONDON, June 1.—Debate on the home rule bill in the house of commons was resumed this afternoon by Joseph Chamberlain. When he arose he was greeted with derisive cheers and howls from the Irish members. He denied the assertion made by Dwyer Gray that he (Chamberlain) was author of an article on national councils published in the Fortnightly Review. Gray knew very well why the author was [illegible] that the [illegible] of the article were supplied from Irish sources. I myself [illegible] said the speaker [illegible] have [illegible] and [illegible] incontestable proof that [illegible] national [illegible] approved the principle of national councils. [illegible] the Parnellites uttered loud howls and cries [illegible] Names [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] cheered Chamberlain. The demonstration [illegible] clearly [illegible] came in [illegible] which lasted several minutes. Chamberlain calmly folded his arms and smiling waited for the tumult to subside, but repeated [illegible] the names called for.

THE LIBERAL UNIONISTS

Resuming, Chamberlain said [illegible] explained why he rejected Gladstone's [illegible] concessions [illegible] He did not he continued propose to reply to [illegible] the personal references made toward himself during the course of the debate. They were perhaps amusing, but below the level of a great constitutional discussion of questions fraught with the most momentous consequences. Those who oppose the home rule measure believe it will prove [illegible] upon Ireland and postpone [illegible] a satisfactory settlement of the Irish question [illegible] [illegible] There had been [illegible] liberal [illegible] a desire both to admit the importance of the division on the second reading of the bill. Members had been told that the bill was already dead. The speaker did not believe that Gladstone would accept a defeat in the second reading on [illegible] that he received [illegible] approval [illegible] a [illegible] of legislative [illegible] to have a parliament of her own, and the government submitted a mere resolution affirming the principle of legislative authority for Ireland, he (Chamberlain) would have voted for it, because it would be consistent either with the creation of a chamber like the Grattan parliament or the establishment of a legislative council such as the speaker suggested and which were now had [illegible] the support of the nationalists [illegible] from Parnellites [illegible] of [illegible] The government proposal however had a stronger meaning than that of a mere abstract resolution, in that it pledged the house to the support of the principle of the home rule bill, from which Gladstone said he would never depart. The speaker and others thought with him since Gladstone's speech at the Foreign office had hoped that the home rule bill might be reconsidered that they could vote for it, but they had been disappointed. [illegible] Gladstone had since practically stated in the house of commons that if the bill passed its second reading it would be [illegible] until October, then to be [illegible] in [illegible] details.

IRISH REPRESENTATION

Concerning the [illegible] of Irish representatives in Westminster, those who agreed with the speaker did not wish to reduce Ireland to [illegible] itself [illegible] and the [illegible] Gladstone would not meet the views [illegible] whom [illegible] this position [illegible] the premier [illegible] might be invited to take part in discussions of imperial [illegible] like those of the [illegible] and Egyptian wars. Questions resulting in such matters were constantly arising, and in order to [illegible] in the [illegible] would [illegible] be constantly present in Westminster. It would be impossible to make [illegible] subordinate body [illegible] would [illegible] under Gladstone's proposals. It would be totally unwise to create an Irish parliament as a subordinate and not a co-ordinate body. [Cheers.] What they wanted was to prevent the Irish members from becoming omnipotent either at Westminster or Dublin. [Cheers and counter-cheers.]

THE ULSTER TROUBLE

As to Ulster, that very important matter [illegible] the speaker would [illegible] go into the question of armed resistance, although [illegible] said [illegible] the Parnellite charge that he had said anything inciting assassination or outrage [Cheers.] But if resistance by Ulster [illegible] Dublin [illegible] were expressed in a constitutional way [illegible] the Irish house of commons [illegible] or [illegible] and resistance. [Hear, Hear.] Why had the resistance of the Protestants of Ulster been stigmatized as unpatriotic? Was it because they were proud of belonging to the great empire and opposed to [illegible] from [illegible] as [illegible] as members of the United Kingdom? It [illegible] Ulster he was [illegible] bitterness. There could however be no doubt that the Protestants of Ulster were [illegible] for their religious interests. He belonged to a family that always opposed anything like religious ascendency. He was convinced that the Protestants of Ulster had just cause to fear the attempts [illegible] by Irish Catholics to secure predominance [illegible] Catholic church, by its faith, was bound not to be content with equality. [Cries of "Oh, Oh."] Irish members from Ireland say no. He could quote pamphlets written by the primate [illegible] [laughter] in which he says: "To secure civil rights has been the aim of Christian civilization while to destroy them and re-establish restless, domineering [illegible] as [illegible] central power is the aim of the Roman policy." That was an absolute truth. If it was worth while to carry the argument further he could give statements which Catholic bishops recently made to the same effect. [Cries of "Quote" [illegible] from Irish members.] Was not Ulster justified in fearing attacks on its material interests, when nationalist papers were describing the Belfast linen industry as one of the curses of the country? [Cries of "No" from Parnellite members.] There are a series of articles in the Irish press in which linen manufacturers are denounced. But after all the question was not whether these fears were well founded or the reverse. The practical question was [illegible] sentiment gave effect to them. [Opposition cheers.] [illegible] When the government should give them more information than was conveyed in Gladstone's recent references to Ulster. The time had come when the government ought to say whether in Ulster or in a portion of Ulster [Hear, hear] such a predominating sentiment is deserves separate consideration, and whether they will devise and scheme to give a portion of Ulster such consideration. [Cheers.]

NOT GOOD ENOUGH FOR SCOTLAND

Continuing, the speaker said that had such a bill been offered to Scotland the people would have indignantly rejected it. Was there any man in the house who could maintain that the bill did not weaken the supremacy of the imperial parliament, or at least throw doubt upon it? [Ministerial cries of "No! No."]

Alluding to references during the debate to the [illegible] Chamberlain contended that it was the [illegible] conclusion from what happened [illegible] lower Canada after the reforms [illegible] that reforms like those would have [illegible] granted to Ireland if the [illegible] carried, and [illegible] concession after concession would have to be made to Ireland until there came the ultimate demand for separation. [Hear, hear.] Demands had been made upon him to state an alternative to Gladstone's proposals. He suggested certain lines upon which the measure might have proceeded. His [illegible] had been described as Pookins' [illegible] and those approving it were called puny whipsters by Mr Healy, whose magnificent [illegible] enabled him to look down upon men not gifted by providence with his great personal gifts. [Laughter.] It was hard upon them to be accused of arrogance and presumption when they were honest enough to meet the demand for an alternative scheme.

They were threatened with dissolution. [Cheers and counter cheers.] Dissolution had no terrors for him. [Cheers.] [illegible] he was confident [illegible] The unionist majority in parliament would be strengthened. [Cheers and cries of "Oh."] He replied that this great issue would [illegible] be submitted to the only tribunal whose decision they could accept. [Parnellite cheers.] He trusted to the [illegible] the good sense and patriotism of the British democracy. There is not a man who does not know that every personal and political interest would have led me to cast my lot with Gladstone. Not a day passes that I do not receive scores of letters urging me for my own sake to vote for the bill and dish the whigs. The [illegible] [illegible] no doubt is great. [Laughter.] But I am not base enough to gratify my personal ambition by betraying my country. [Loud cheers.] I am convinced that when this discussion is over the liberals will not judge harshly of those who pursued honestly the path of duty even though it leads to disruption of the party and loss of personal influence and power which it is the legitimate ambition of every man to seek among his political friends and associates. [Loud and prolonged cheering by the conservatives.]

It is signed by Arnold Morely.

Miss Folsom Leaves New York for Washington.

DEATH OF TAMMANY'S CHIEF

NEW YORK, June 1.—Wilson S. Bissell, of Buffalo, President Cleveland's former law partner, called upon Miss Folsom at the Gilsey house to-day and spent half an hour in conversation with her. He said he should accompany Miss Folsom and her mother to Washington this evening. He said President Cleveland and his bride would soon take a trip to Europe. The date of their departure, however, he could not say. It was his intention, he said, to accompany them abroad. The trip will probably be made, he added, just after congress adjourns. Mr Bissell and Mr Benjamin Folsom left the hotel about 12:30 o'clock.

At [illegible] o'clock Miss Folsom was alone with her [illegible] and busy with her correspondence. Since her arrival in this city she has received a heavy [illegible] and not a few letters from cranks. [illegible] brought her a letter from [illegible] Martin [illegible] He wanted to know if she [illegible] [illegible] of the laboring class [illegible] [illegible] the letter concluded [illegible] appeals. Miss [illegible] devoted the spare time [illegible] afternoon to the packing of trunks and other preparations for the trip to Washington. Mr. Folsom [illegible] ordered carriages for [illegible] o'clock, P. M.

THE DEPARTURE

Miss Folsom took dinner with her mother [illegible] about [illegible] P M and did not [illegible] until about [illegible]. The trip to Washington and [illegible] were the principal topics talked about during the meal. Shortly after 7 o'clock hotel porters came to the private parlor of the Folsom suite to take charge of the baggage. Most of Miss Folsom's trunks were in the baggage room below, but five large Saratogas remained to be removed downstairs. In all eleven larger trunks were piled on an express wagon that was waiting at the hotel steps to go to Washington, and five others were addressed to 314 Main street, Buffalo, New York.

[illegible] Miss Folsom finished the preparations for her journey. She was then dressed in a close [illegible] black silk dress and wore a peaked cap [illegible] with a high white feather resting upon it that [illegible] concealed her face. As she emerged [illegible] shawl over her [illegible]

Miss Folsom, Mr [illegible] [illegible] came down [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] Mr [illegible] to the carriage, and Mr [illegible] [illegible] The [illegible] was filled with ladies [illegible] enthusiastically [illegible] their hand [illegible] as driven away. This was [illegible] The [illegible] gray team [illegible] started [illegible] the ferry. The route was toward Fifth avenue [illegible] Washington square and [illegible] Desbrosses street [illegible] [illegible] ferryboat that Mr. [illegible] crossed [illegible]

The carriage was driven aboard and immediately the boat steamed for Jersey City. Having arrived there the [illegible] entrance [illegible] The party alighted and ascended the stairway [illegible] room [illegible] the waiting room and [illegible] to the platform. Here it was found that the private car that had been intended to convey the party to Washington was not on the track. This [illegible] was overcome by a quickly made decision to enter the regular parlor car Car No [illegible] was chosen and the ladies were conducted to it with promptness. Miss [illegible] Mrs Folsom seated themselves in the drawing room and Mr Folsom went to attend to the baggage. An attache of the hotel handed the bride elect a bouquet that had been entrusted to him by a guest of the hotel. Miss Folsom expressed her thanks, saying at the same time that she felt much gratitude for kindnesses shown to her during her brief stay in New York.

A [illegible] P M the private car that had been appointed to the party was backed up on the track [illegible] the ladies were conducted to it. All the curtains in the car were drawn. The car was then [illegible] hed on to the train and at 9 0 was hauled out of the station. Chinese Minister Chang Yen Hoon and his suite went on the same train. Secretaries Endicott, Whitney and Vilas with their wives returned to Washington by the 3 30 P M train. Col [illegible] Bissell left at midnight.

THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The president and party returned here at 8 o'clock this morning from New York unaccompanied by his bride. Her mother and cousin, and the wives of the cabinet officers are still in the city. Miss Folsom will leave for Washington at 9 o'clock this evening.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The president proceeded at once to business this morning. He approved a number of bills, including the act authorizing the [illegible] & Kansas Valley railroad company to construct and operate a railway through Indian territory.

Many senators, representatives and other officials called at the White house to-day and congratulated the president on his approaching marriage. He was in a very happy frame of mind and entered the chaffing and pleasantries of his visitors on the subject of his wedding, with the utmost good nature.

Secretary and Mrs Manning will attend the president's wedding. This will be the first social entertainment of the kind Secretary Manning has attended since he was taken sick.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR

An Appeal to Congress to Regulate the Rate of Interest

CLEVELAND, June [illegible].—At the Knights of Labor convention this morning the first business was the adoption of the amended report of the committee [illegible] strikes and boycotts. The executive board [illegible] approve all future strikes, and except in certain grievances where immediate action is necessary a strike or a boycott will not be allowed without [illegible] approval.

The address to the Women's Christian Temperance Union was adopted, after which the committee on legislation presented a report recommending that a petition be sent to congress to fix a measure of value and regulate the value of money. It was adopted. The petition says:

Your petitioners are mostly citizens of the United States and members of the laboring class [illegible] [illegible] which labor produces all wealth, those who perform honest labor have the [illegible] to [illegible] That we feel this state of things to be largely due to both vicious legislation and a want of proper legislation by congress.

That the money of the United States is of uncertain value, differing widely in different parts of the country at all times and at every place at various times, whereas, being a measure of commercial value it should be fixed and invariable in value. For example, at this time in one part of the country money is worth only 2 per cent. per annum; in another [illegible] and in another 20, and ranges from 2 to 50 [illegible] throughout the Union. The uncertainty in the value of money causes distress and uncertainty in all transactions, so much that capital is timid and labor unemployed, and periodical panics occur in all business, in consequence of which the industrial classes are financially ruined and laborers thrown out of employment, and indescribable want and suffering brought upon the masses of the people, and unjust gains are acquired by those who manipulate money.

That the supply of a large portion of the money of the country is in the control of private corporations, called national banking associations, created by congressional legislation, with whom private gain is the only motive for supplying money to the people, that it is through the manipulations of said corporations and other money lenders that the people suffer many of the misfortunes and privations hereinbefore mentioned and many others not mentioned.

That the right to issue or coin money is a sovereign prerogative which ought not to be exercised but by the highest power in the nation, and we view with alarm the exercise of such prerogative by private persons or corporations, and as a remedy for the evils which we complain of and for redress of the grievances we suffer as herein set forth we pray your honorable body will fulfill the duties imposed on you by the constitution, section 8, which provides that congress shall have power to coin money and regulate the value thereof, and fix the standard of weights and measures, that you fix the measure of value by establishing a just uniform and invariable rate of interest for money loaned. That in order to maintain such rates of interest, as the minimal rate [illegible] repeal all laws authorizing private persons or corporations to issue money, and in their stead establish public loan offices through out the country, wherever needed, at least one in every county, with proper officers to perform the duties of said offices. That the national government lend money to the people at said offices on good and sufficient security, and at a fixed rate of interest on demand, and that profits arising from the business of lending said money be covered into the public treasury for public uses. That said loan offices be also made a depository for the savings of the people.

Representative Low, of Pennsylvania, then introduced a bill for recommendation to congress, entitled "An act fixing the measure of value and further regulating the value of money." The bill provides for the loaning of money by the government at 3 per cent per annum. The bill contained sixteen long sections.

After the adoption of the above report the committee on state of the order read its report, and the general assembly took recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The entire afternoon was taken up in discussing the report of the committee on state of the order, to which were referred the troubles with trades unions. The report and the discussion were not given to the press, but it was learned that no action had been taken in the matter.

NEW YORK, June 1.—John Kelly died at [illegible] this afternoon [illegible] [illegible] Mr Kelly had [illegible] months. At noon, however, he began to sink and the approach of the end was realized. Mr Kelly's death was painless, although he was conscious to the last. Only Mrs Kelly and her two children were present when the patient passed away. Mrs Kelly was prostrated by the blow and is too ill to see anybody. No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

Kelly's physical deterioration was great. His hair and beard became perfectly white. He lost at least sixty pounds of flesh. His brain, on other [illegible] very much affected, although [illegible] He had several attacks [illegible] had as much [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] He was perfectly conscious and possessed of all his faculties. He seemed to [illegible] but appeared to be willing to let [illegible] showed a noticeable [illegible] in temperature and became feverish. This morning he was very restless. His heart [illegible] and respiration became difficult. At noon [illegible] he lapsed into unconsciousness and death appeared in the distance. He died gradually and suffered no pain to the end.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS

DISGRACEFUL SCENE ON DECORATION DAY

DETROIT, June 1.—In his oration at the decoration of the soldiers' monument yesterday, Rev Dr Charles O'Reilly, treasurer of the Irish national league of America, spoke of the fisheries troubles and awakened great enthusiasm by saying that the United States did not know when it was insulted. England always knew where it could insult with impunity. O'Reilly remotely alluded to England's attitude towards the North during the war and said it was a shame that men who, twenty-five years ago would draw revolvers or go down into their boots for bowie knives if anybody said the United States would be a free country, now held the reins of government. He said it was the same lot who had England's sympathy and overt support during the war that now sought, by mean means, to degrade the nation which they had in open rebellion attempted to destroy.

A wild scene followed these remarks. Veterans [illegible] in ranks about the monument cheered [illegible] voice. Thousands of citizens applauded. [illegible] called out, "I didn't come here to hear a political speech." "I am glad the speaker dares tell the truth," yelled another man. There was commotion in the crowd, and the first two individuals were eager to clinch, but bystanders interfered and prevented a fight. The greatest excitement prevailed for a time, but finally the procession reformed and marched to the cemeteries.

ARRESTED FOR TAPPING AN OIL TANK

BRADFORD, Pa., June 1.—W. S. George, of Duke Centre, near here, a prominent organizer of the Knights of Labor and conspicuous in his attitude against monopolies, was arrested and held to bail yesterday on a charge of systematically robbing the National Transit pipe company for the past three years. George has four oil wells, the contents of which discharge in one tank. Near this tank runs the Transit company's three inch pipe buried in the ground. This line was tapped, it is alleged, and a half inch pipe inserted and led away to George's tank. The arrest has caused a sensation.

WILL RETURN TO THE TEN HOUR SYSTEM

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

THE MAXWELL MURDER TRIAL.

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—Judge Van Wagoner of the criminal court read his instructions to the jury in the Maxwell case this morning. The judge said if the jury should find that defendant did kill and murder Preller in the manner and form charged in either of the counts of the indictment, they should return a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. If, however, the evidence showed that defendant undertook to treat or operate on Preller for a disease and administered chloroform so negligently, carelessly and recklessly as to cause his patient's death, but without intent to kill or do bodily harm, they should bring in a verdict of manslaughter in the fourth degree.

The judge further instructed the jury that if it had been shown that Preller desired defendant to treat him for the disease [illegible] [illegible] himself voluntarily to such treatment and [illegible] chloroform in a cautious, careful manner [illegible] verdict of not guilty should be returned and they should acquit defendant. THE FISHERIES TROUBLE

MERELY A COINCIDENCE.

LONDON, June 1.—The presence of the British man of war Bellerophon at Halifax at the present juncture is explained at the admiralty office to be neither significant nor important. She is there now in the regular course of orders issued long ago. Among other vessels belonging to the British navy which will soon reach Halifax under regular orders are the Dido, Garnet, Emeralda and Lily. The Mallard has been ordered to St. Johns.

BAIT SOLD ON THE QUIET

TRICHAT, June 1.—Mackerel are plentiful in these waters. Two American vessels bought bait yesterday outside of the harbor. The fishermen do not disclose their names. They meet them on the south of Cape August and Jerseyman's island and sell bait on the quiet. The schooners neither hoist flags nor come into port.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2, 1886

H

A PROBLEM OF IRRIGATION.

The great distance of Oregon and Washington from the centers of population, and the lack of direct communication, has been a hindrance to their development in past years, but not, as we so often hear, the sole reason why population has not poured in here as in Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota and other Western states. If Oregon and Washington had been a level prairie country, we should now have ten times our present population, in spite of distance, lack of railroads, and cost of coming here. The major hindrance has been and is still the lack of level land which does not require "clearing," and from which a settler can take a crop the first year. Our immigration comes in the natural course, from the Western states, and is composed of people reared on the prairies and accustomed to a level, open country. They are appalled, and quite naturally, by a country whose rugged aspects are so different from what they have known. They see no place for fields and orchards in a land which in their eyes is but a series of inhospitable mountains. How often do we hear the expression from newcomers: "Well, all this is very fine, but one can't live on scenery?" So often, indeed, that about the first remark to a visitor is an apology for the appearance of the country, with an explanation that the level land lies a little farther on. And even when the level land is reached, there is comparatively little of it. It lies between mountains so high as to be always more or less under their shadow. Settlement excepting in the valleys is slow because it takes time and labor to make a place which will yield a living. Does anybody imagine that if the Willamette valley or a country like it extended from the ocean to the Idaho line and from British Columbia to California a single acre of it would now, after nearly fifty years of settlement, be vacant? Most certainly it would not. It would have been occupied many years ago just as the Willamette, Rogue river, Umpqua and other valleys were occupied. While distance, isolation, etc., would have delayed development it would not positively have hindered it.

We are not among the eager ones who believe that the best interests of the country would have been advanced by a rapid growth. We have grown in character and have a stable condition of society. We are now in a fix to be benefited by a large immigration and would have it at once if we had an inviting country, that is, if we had level land in place of mountains. People cannot be made to understand the value of our hill and timber land, and will not come to us in such numbers as we desire. We have in Eastern Oregon and Washington a vast body of rich land which in its natural state is unproductive, but which needs only water to make it a most extraordinary and inviting country. This region is for the most part timberless, its surface is beautifully rolling and its soil is excellent and especially adapted to cereal crops. Withal, it has a climate approximating that of the western states without the extremes of heat and cold which prevail there. It is not subject to cyclones and other terrors of the western prairies. It is a country especially attractive to the very best class of immigrants, and is broad enough to give homes to many thousands of families. But it lacks water. This is the whole secret of its present unproductive condition. Water alone is needed to make it blossom.

Near Riverside, Cal., there is a similar tract of "desert" land, which has always been unproductive and considered of no value whatever. The soil is of the richest, but it lies far above any natural water source and it has been believed to be impossible to put water upon it. But recently the problem has been solved by a man who makes no pretense of scientific knowledge. He says: "When I began to work on this matter, about four years ago, I was generally looked upon as a visionary. I put in $35,000, and kept on until everything was mortgaged. My enterprise was private and not a joint stock concern. About three years ago I located a section of land just east of Riverside, on the dry plain, under the desert land act, and took this for a nucleus. I found artesian land, employed a civil engineer, ran lines, secured the right of way for my proposed canal, and contracted with persons owning land under the line of the canal to furnish them an inch of water to five acres, for which they will pay $100 per acre. On this contract I gave five years' time, at 8 per cent. interest from the time the water is placed upon the land, the payments to be secured by mortgage on the lands to be irrigated." He has gone on with his artesian experiments till he has above a score of flowing wells which produce all the water desired. He has engaged to supply water to many settlers and is reaping a princely revenue already, with prospects for a still more profitable business in the future.

In the success of this scheme there is a suggestion for Oregon and Washington. The conditions here are quite as favorable as in California. There can be no reasonable doubt that deep boring here would produce water in abundance, as it has there and elsewhere. And if the thing were done successfully here it would at once make all of the elevated country of Eastern Oregon and Washington as productive and valuable as the valleys. And if this great area were made fit for habitation it would be the signal for such a wave of immigration as the Northwest has not yet seen. If private or corporation capital does not take hold of this field of enterprise the state ought to do it. We believe that a few thousand dollars spent judiciously in experiments would demonstrate a fact the certain knowledge of which would bring us back the money a hundred fold.

SCOUNDRELISM DEALT WITH.

> On the subject of bribery and corruption at the polls in Oregon [illegible] furnishes the readers of the [illegible] with some valuable historical reminiscences this morning.

We give an extract from the lying communication thus commended by the lying organ of the ring. It follows a paragraph reprinted by it from THE OREGONIAN:

> Th[illegible] from Harvey Scott at this late day when it is remembered that about fifteen years since [illegible] attorney he was [illegible] going to the penitentiary on the charge of buying votes in this city. In one of his letters to Washington to the department of justice confidentially, when Hon. George H. Williams was U. S. attorney general, in his despair he whined: "You must turn out Deady or he'll get us all in the penitentiary." The fac simile of Scott's letter from which we make a true extract may be found in the Standard files of about eight years since, and as Harvey has lately gone his pile on fac similes his own specimen may be held before him as a chicken come home to roost.

These statements, one and all, are calumnies, lies, as are all others that follow it in the same article. Scott was not even accused of buying votes in this city, nor anywhere else. He never wrote to Attorney-General Williams, "You must turn out Deady, or he will get us all into the penitentiary." It is not likely that any one will think him fool enough to have supposed that the attorney-general could dismiss a judge from office. Nor did the Standard ever print a fac simile letter of which the above is an extract. The infamous slanderer and liar, whom the contemptible organ vouches for, presents a variation of the original lie on this subject. Once it was said that "Scott wrote to Williams, 'You must dismiss Gibbs from office or he will get us all into the penitentiary.'" And it was declared that this was an extract from a fac simile letter published by the Standard. But this was a lie, just as this new version is a lie. And none but liars and villains will give currency to such statements.

These are plain words. They are intended to be plain. There is just one proper way of dealing with such scoundrelism, and that is to characterize it as it deserves.

Two factions of litigants and politicians in this state are engaged in a fight for possession of the supreme court. One of these factions is eager for the election of Waldo and the other quite as eager for the election of Strahan. They are making a contest highly discreditable to the candidates and calculated to degrade the supreme court in the esteem of the people. Interested writers who do not sign their true names are flooding the state press with letters for and against both candidates, wholly forgetful of the dignity of the bench, in some cases even forgetful of decency itself. THE OREGONIAN has already printed too many of these letters, but it will print no more. No really disinterested person engages in such a "fight," for to honest people it matters nothing who is supreme judge so he have integrity and capacity. The fair presumption is that the men now before the people are about equally honest, or if we are to take the estimates of their opponents who have been "writing them up," about equally dishonest.

John Kelly, whose death is reported by telegraph, had in practical perfection the rare and high faculty of leadership. Through this he was able to organize the most unstable political element in the country into a compact and disciplined political force, a force strong enough to make and unmake national administrations. He came into notice and has remained a conspicuous public figure simply as a ring manager. No man ever understood better how to hold his forces together or how to wield them to the greatest advantage. He made ring politics not only a system but a science. Mr. Kelly belonged to a class of men who do not bring their personal principles into politics, who think all is fair in politics as in war. A gentleman in private life against whom nothing could be said, he was absolutely without scruple in political affairs. He was a promoter of those forms of political immorality which have of late years so degraded the country and if admired for his ability and address, gained no position which a good man ought to be proud of. It is the John Kelly style of politics which the independent men of this state are now combatting.

The Northern Pacific seems to be doing its utmost to support ring politics in Oregon. Its agent and factotum in this city, Paul Schulze, is a manager of the ring managers and is the most active man in the business. Is this done by direction of the Northern Pacific corporation? If so, for what purpose? Of course for no other than that they suppose that their interests will be subserved by success of the ring which the agent so vigorously supports.

FERRY RATES

The following comparison of ferry rates is submitted for information to the public. The comparison shows that the rates at Portland are no greater on the whole but average less than the rates at the North and East river ferries, New York, or the rates at the bridges and ferries at Cincinnati, Newport and Kansas City. The commutation rates at Portland, moreover, are one third less than those given in the table, and there is no doubt that ferry rates here are on the whole as cheap now as at other cities of the United States.

I have been asked the question why I declined to run for sheriff of Multnomah county. I will here say that I have not "declined" neither do I intend to, but am doing all I can honorably for election and would beg to inform those starting such a rumor in the interest of another candidate that I expect to be elected. At any rate I will not be the last one in the race for that office.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

ABANDONED THE CHICKEN BUSINESS.—Messrs Mills and Howe who went into the chicken business on a large scale in Yamhill county two or three years since have given it up and Mr Mills has gone up the country while Mr Howe has stocked the place with cattle and horses. The farm made money at first when eggs averaged 35 cents per dozen the year round but after the price came down and Iowa eggs were introduced bringing it still further down there was but little profit at 10 cents per dozen for eggs and chickens in proportion and so the business was abandoned. They had at one time 3000 fowls on the place. It has been the prevailing idea that fowls could not be kept successfully in such large numbers especially on this coast. In regard to this no trouble was experienced on account of disease. The chief loss as Mr Mills says was from "two-legged skunks" who got away with great numbers of chickens. Four-egged skunks and other vermin of course took their share but the vermin first mentioned were the most annoying. There appears to be no trouble in regard to keeping any number of chickens that is if one can keep them and even at the present low prices of eggs there should be something in the business as it pays in other places where eggs are cheaper than they are here. The chicken business has at last got to such a stage in this state that we raise our own eggs and have plenty of them at reasonable rates, and so it may it ever be.

THE LEVEE [illegible].—A meeting of the judiciary committee of the common council was held last evening to consider the matter of the proposition of Wm [illegible] in regard to the city levee. Mayor Gates, Councilmen Fleisher, Gallagher, Cerdes, Hacheney and Holland and City Attorney Tanner were present. James C. Chapman addressed the committee on the part of the Coffin heirs. He claimed that the levee on account of failure to use had reverted to the original donor. And further that the legislature had no power or authority to divert the levee to the use of the railway and that the city had no power under its charter to build a dock there or to lease the levee. He read numerous quotations in support of his claims and spoke briefly on the matter. Mr C J Macdougal spoke in behalf of the railway company. He said that the quotations read by Mr Chapman had been considered by Judge Deady in rendering his decision in this matter. He said the railway company only asked to be permitted to proceed with their work on the levee without molestation. They did not want to involve the city in any trouble, but would meet the Coffins, or any other persons who thought they had a claim to the levee. He quoted from Judge Deady's decision to show that the claims made by Chapman were untenable.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING.—Word has been received of the drowning of Miss Lizzie Harrison Friday evening near Jefferson, Marion county. She had been gathering wild strawberries, and in attempting to cross a small slough which empties into the river fell in to it and was carried down with the current. The remains were recovered Sunday, and the funeral was held the following day. Miss Harrison was a daughter of John Harrison and aged [illegible] years.

Another account is that the young lady desiring to cross the stream pulled off her shoes and stockings and attempted to wade across but slipped in the swift current and was carried down to her death, and the fact that when the body was found those articles of apparel were missing seems to confirm this belief.

FIRST TRIP OF THE OLYMPIAN TO THE SEASIDE.—The excursion of Grace church to Astoria, Ilwaco and Fort Canby on Saturday, June 19, on the luxurious and swift sidewheel steel steamer Olympian gives promise of being a rare treat. The steamer leaves Portland at 7 A M and returns at 10 P M and excursionists will be able to spend several hours at either of the above mentioned points. A superior musical and literary programme is being arranged. Prof and Mrs Wetzel and other first-class talent will contribute to the entertainment of the excursionists. It will be full moon and as the spacious steamer is fully lighted with electric lights the return trip will be particularly enjoyable. Tickets Astoria, $1 50; Ilwaco and Fort Canby $2; children $1.

THE WATER COMMITTEE.—Yesterday afternoon the water committee held a regular meeting, nine out of fifteen members being present. Engineer Smith stated that it would not be possible to complete his report of the last survey for several days. The committee thereupon adjourned until such time as the report is ready. Answering the inquiries of an OREGONIAN reporter as to what the committee proposed to do, one of the members stated that the sentiment of the committee was in favor of bringing in water from Bull Run and the only question was the cost and this could be approximated only by the engineer's report. If the water can be brought to Portland and distributed for the amount of money at the committee's disposal it will be done.

MORE PIGEONS.—The Multnomah Rod and Gun club yesterday received forty dozen of wild pigeons from the Puyallup valley to be used at the coming tournament. The birds were captured in nets, the good old fashioned method of putting salt on their tails not being in vogue over there. Just how the birds are got in the net is not known to the writer but it is probable that a long and wide net is set and the ground along it baited and when the birds come to eat the bait the net is flopped over them by some means and they are caught if they don't get away. They are warranted to be fleet of wing and those who shoot at them will have to be quick on the trigger or they will score a miss.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Edward C Roth arrested several days ago for stealing a jackscrew belonging to J Bridges had an examination before Squire Davis yesterday and was held to answer before the grand jury. Roth did not deny taking the jackscrew and selling it, but swore he took it from the outside of Bridges's shop and other witnesses say it was inside the shop when stolen. This seems to be the only point in dispute, as if the jackscrew was taken from inside of Bridges's place Roth committed a penitentiary offense, and if from the outside only petit larceny. In default of $500 bail Roth languishes.

GETTING INTO CELLARS.—The water is beginning to show in the cellar of the building being constructed at the corner of First and Oak streets and in expectation of a further rise the contractor Mr Langford is hurrying up the stone foundation walls. In a few days more he will be ready for the joists of the ground floor, and will start the walls of the building and show the water a dry pair of heels. Parties who have cellars liable to be flooded will do well to keep their lamps trimmed and be ready to move their goods higher on short notice. Now is the time when the man who has an elevator feels happy.

STEEL RAILS TO ALBANY.—For some time past the work of replacing the old iron rails with steel ones on the east side line of the O & C R R has been in progress. This work was started a year ago and as the supply of rails gave out when a point near Jefferson was reached operations were suspended. Recently the steamer Aneon brought to this port a further supply of steel rails and track layers have since been engaged in substituting them for the old iron track. They will soon reach Albany and then there will be an uninterrupted road of steel rails between Portland and Albany.

BONDS SOLD AT A PREMIUM.—The sealed proposals for the purchase of the forty seven bonds of the city amounting to $[illegible] 600 payable June 1, 18[illegible] with interest at 5 per cent were opened yesterday by the committee on ways and means. Ignatz Steinhart, for B. Goldsmith, agent, offered $101 for every $100 of the bonds. M. Fried offered 1 per cent premium for five bonds. The First National bank offered [illegible] per cent premium for the whole. The committee believing Mr Steinhart's offer to be the best for the interest of the city sold the bonds to him and ask the council to ratify the action.

DIVORCE GRANTED.—William Quast was yesterday granted a divorce from Wilhelmina Quast by Judge Stearns. They were married in San Francisco [illegible] employed on the steamer Idaho and during one of his trips Mrs Quast skipped for the big city with a negro named James Stain, taking with her $[illegible] [illegible]. Her husband asked for a legal separation. He was already sufficiently separated but like many others wanted something to show for it.

AN [illegible] SOUVENIR.—H C Leckenberger of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, has an ancient souvenir which he prizes highly. It is a silver medal struck off in honor of the marriage of Charles I and Henrietta Maria, and is dated 1625. On one side are portraits of the bride and groom—each seemingly as clean cut as the day the medal was made. On the other side is Cupid holding in his hand a bunch of lilies and roses, surrounded by the following inscription: "Fundit Amor Lilia Mixta Rosis."

WHAT OF IT?—The narrow gauge road has recently given a contract for a lot of standard gauge ties, to be laid between here and Dundee. Just what it means has not yet developed, but one thing is certain, a company does not buy ties eight feet long when ties two feet shorter will do just as well without some object. Perhaps the company expect to make connection in the dim future with some eastern railroad which may come into the Willamette valley or with the Oregon Pacific.

HURT BY FALLING TIMBER.—S G Dorris, who rode in yesterday from Lafayette reports that Mr Webster an employe of Jaquet & Smith engaged in building a bridge on the narrow gauge railroad at Middleton, Washington county, met with a serious accident. It seems that a cap or heavy piece of timber, which was being placed in position on the top of some piling connected with the bridge, fell and struck Mr Webster tearing off his left ear and breaking one of his legs.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.—Last night a regular meeting of the board of police commissioners was held, Bourne absent. Application of F B Harrington for position as police officer read and placed on file. The following claims were approved and ordered certified for payment to the council: Pay roll for May $[illegible]; F J Johnston $17 10; Portland Gaslight Co $[illegible]; secret detective service, $60; E Lewiston, feeding prisoners $61. Adjourned.

EPISCOPAL CONVOCATION.—The annual convocation of the missionary jurisdiction of Oregon meets in Astoria on Thursday of this week. A preparatory service will be held this evening in Grace church at which the Rev G W Foote of Portland will preach the sermon. Bishop Morris will deliver his annual address on Thursday evening and the new church will be consecrated by him on Sunday morning.

A WRECK.—Poor old James A Daly, the collector, was arraigned in the police court yesterday on a charge of drunkenness. Daly was at one time quite a prosperous citizen but met with reverses and is now what might be denominated as a total wreck. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10, meaning in his case five days. Daly is a more fit subject for the hospital than the jail.

DROWNING.—Last Friday evening Miss Lizzie Harrison aged [illegible] years, the daughter of John Harrison who resides near Jefferson [illegible], was drowned. She had been gathering wild strawberries and while crossing a stream [illegible] and was carried down by the strong current. [illegible] body was recovered Sunday evening.

A O U W ELECTION.—Last night Hope Lodge No 1 A O U W elected the following officers: M W, T J Davidson; foreman, John D Drew; overseer, J J Dewes; recorder, H L Bown; financier, T B Merry; receiver, George Stowell; guide, A N Clark; [illegible] W W Palmer; O W, J A Campbell; trustee, G W Cummings.

PICNIC TO LATOURELLE FALLS.—The Unitarian Sunday schools and church have engaged the Wide West for June 19 to go to Latourelle Falls, one of the best grounds and most picturesque localities in Oregon. The tickets will be 50 and 25 cents and full arrangements will be advertised later.

NEW ASSIGNEE.—When William Kerron made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors he named W B Honeyman as assignee. The creditors wanted a man of their own choosing, so they got together and empowered J N Teal to make a selection, which he did in the person of I. R. Dawson.

PICNIC TO OAK ISLAND.—Saturday at 8 o'clock the Multnomah will leave Alder street wharf carrying the Taylor street M E Sunday school and friends to Oak Island for a day's outing and picnic. The fare is placed within the reach of all: adults 50 cents, children half price.

LAWN PARTY.—The young ladies of the Unitarian church will give a lawn party at Mrs Moffett's on Friday next. Dancing will take place on a platform built for the occasion and refreshments will be served including all the summer luxuries. Admission 50 cents.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKING.—There will be a democratic rally at the Masonic hall to-night at 8 o'clock. Hon R A Jones, W R Strode, Sidney Dell, A S Bennett and others will address the audience.

READY TO BUILD ON THE LEVEE

To the Honorable the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Portland: The Portland & Willamette Valley railway company respectfully showeth that the United States circuit court for Oregon and state circuit court have decided that the act of 18[illegible] concerning the public levee is a grant or license (to your petitioner) entitling it to use and improve that property by the construction of wharves, warehouses and terminal railway facilities thereon for the public use; that the city of Portland has no pecuniary interest therein or entitled to damages in consequence of the legislature having authorized your petitioner to improve and use said premises as a public landing, and that in consideration of the advantage of being allowed access to ship navigation at this point and the right to maintain a depot thereat the Portland & Willamette Valley railway company is so far the agent of the state that it is required to furnish the public with suitable wharf and warehouse facilities there for the transaction of business, including free dockage for vessels engaged in loading or discharging cargo.

Accordingly, that pursuant to the requirements of said act of the legislature and decision of the courts confirming the same your petitioner now stands ready to proceed with the immediate construction of said public wharf, warehouses and terminal facilities upon said public levee.

May it therefore please your honorable body to pass a resolution permitting your petitioner peaceably to proceed with the necessary improvements required by law in such manner that the same shall conform to the original dedication and to the decision of the courts thereunder. And your petitioner will ever pray.

AS TO FILING OPINIONS.

PORTLAND May 31 1886

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The recent articles on the supreme judges have referred to Judge Waldo as having decided the case of Teal vs Dickenson and filed no opinion.

Is this not in violation of section [illegible] article 7 constitution of Oregon?

It occurs to me that parties, or at least defeated parties to a case of the magnitude of this one, involving as is said property to the amount of $500 000, are entitled to an opinion from the court stating the grounds upon which it was taken from one and given to another. No doubt this was the object of the framers of the constitution when they put that section in it.

This case suggests some things that I would like to see explained, inasmuch as the persons so active in the support of Judge Waldo are the parties who won this same case, and this same case will come to the supreme court again soon in all probability.

While upon this subject I would like to know who is to blame for the tardiness in rendering decisions in that court. There are important cases that have been held under advisement for upwards of a year. Is there no help for this thing? Are the rights of litigants to be carried around in the coat tails of judges till they get ready to decide?

Nursing judges in the interest of job lawsuits and keeping them there for one particular case, is not in the interest of the people. Let us know the facts. We have a right to know that we may judge of a candidate's fitness. VOTER.

If you suffer from looseness of the bowels, Angostura Bitters will surely cure you. Beware of counterfeits and ask your grocer or druggist for the genuine article, prepared by Dr J G B Siegert & Sons.

THE EAST SIDE.

Pastoral Residence to be Dedicated—A Letter and Verse by Whittier—Assault and Battery—Brief Notes.

Not long ago the children of Mrs. F. E. Alford's room at the Central school building authorized Miss Ada Mercer to write to John G. Whittier and request that gentleman to favor them with the date of his birth and a verse of poetry. Yesterday Miss Mercer received a reply from the venerable Quaker bard couched in the following language:

I cheerfully comply with the request of my young friends on the Pacific coast and with all good wishes am their sincere friend.
JOHN G. WHITTIER

The poet omitted to mention the date of his birth, perhaps he had personal reasons therefor, but he parted with a characteristic stanza as follows:

Faith shares the future's promise, Love's
Self-offering is a triumph won
And each good word or action moves
The dark world nearer to the sun.
Amesbury May 26 1886

BLESSING OF THE PASTORAL RESIDENCE.

Neat cards containing the following courteous invitation have been distributed among the congregation of St. Francis church this week:

Rev. [illegible] Verhaag kindly invites you to be present at the new pastoral residence corner of [illegible] and Eleventh streets, East Portland, on Thursday evening, June [illegible] at 8 o'clock, when the blessing of the building will take place by his grace Archbishop Gross assisted by several of the clergy.

In addition to this we are requested to state that excellent music will be rendered and that a general invitation is extended to all.

"SHAKESPEARE" KNOCKED OUT.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon an altercation occurred between John Riner and Winter Clay, familiarly known as "Shakespeare," at the foot of L street. Riner has been engaged for some time past in keeping tally of the travel across the Stark street ferry in the interest of the petitioners for lower ferry rates. According to Riner's story Clay came up in a semi intoxicated condition and began to abuse him and interfere with his work so much so that he was compelled to take off his coat and lay his antagonist out. "Shakespeare" says Riner pounced upon him without any provocation whatever and proceeded to pummel him. Riner was placed under arrest by Marshal McMillan last evening and will have a hearing before Recorder Gillespie this morning. The cause will probably be heard by a jury.

VALUABLE HORSE DROWNED.

One day last week James Lotan's thoroughbred Hambletonian James A. Garfield which has been in pasture on Cader Powell's ranch on Columbia slough, strayed into a swollen branch of the river and was drowned. The animal was a splendid one and valued at $500.

NOTES.

J. C. Wilson, formerly of the Star baseball club, has been elected change catcher of the Willamettes.

Hon E J Sprague of Stephens addition will next week remove with his family to Eugene City where he will hereafter reside. It is Mr S.'s intention to engage in the manufacture of wooden ware and wire fence.

The Willamettes bid fair to be well supplied with willows. Prof Tom Parrott yesterday presented the boys with half a dozen regulation bats accompanied with the promise of six more and a ball when they shall have defeated the Stars.

THE SUPREME JUDGESHIP

PORTLAND June 1 1886

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I have been an interested reader of the various communications which have appeared in your paper concerning the candidates for supreme judge and particularly those written by "Justice" and "Real Estate" and taken together they present a sad commentary upon the judiciary and the estimate in which men are held. They seem to be written by persons who have opposite sides of a case which is to be heard in the supreme court and each accuses the other of having an interest in such litigation and both seem to assume that if their man should be elected they would be all right—that the election of their man meant the winning of their case.

I cannot have such an opinion of humanity. I believe both these parties are mistaken. Judge Strahan has been a leading member of the bar of this state for many years, has held positions of trust and responsibility and is everywhere recognized as a lawyer of fine attainments. It is entirely too low an estimate of humanity to believe that if elected to the high office to which he aspires (and there is none higher in the state) he would prostitute that office to advance his own interests or the interests of any other man. He has too much ability and sound judgment so to act. For there is no surer way to political damnation (and let us hope eternal damnation too) than for the idea to get abroad that some particular man or men run him. There is too much disgrace attached to it, too much sinking of manhood for me to believe a man like Judge Strahan will ever descend to it.

As for Judge Waldo, an intimate acquaintance with him for many years and a considerable practice before the supreme court during the six years he has occupied a seat on that body has convinced me that he is as entirely impersonal in his judgments as it is possible for a man to be. If he is not absolutely honest then there is no use of expecting honesty in any man. I do not pretend that he is perfect. If he were he would have been an angel long ago. But he is honest and his opinions are his own best judgments without regard to friend or foe and he is quite as capable as the average men who fill such stations.

Certainly these two anonymous correspondents have pitched their estimate of these two gentlemen who aspire to this high position, entirely too low. And both Judges Waldo and Strahan in this instance may well exclaim "Save me from my friends." A LAWYER

THE CHOICE OF JUDGES

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

It must be evident to all thinking persons that the choice of judges is a matter of more consequence to the individual voter than the selection of any other officers whose appointment lies in the hands of the people. The circumstances which originate litigation are usually unexpected. The man of commerce may at any time be called into court in consequence of some mercantile contract which he has made; the man who supports himself by manual labor may become involved in a difficulty with his employer; the professional man may be charged with want of proper skill; the man who owns a horse and lot may get into controversy in a dozen ways. In short there is hardly any station of life enviable or pitiable or indifferent in which a private person has not an interest in the existence of a competent judiciary. It is therefore the duty of every voter to scrutinize with particular care the character of all nominees in this department and to disregard the bidding of his political party, if such nominees are not fit men.

The chief qualities necessary in a judge are integrity, experience and natural ability. If he is devoid of integrity no poor man's cause will be safe in his hands. If he is without natural ability he will blunder in difficult cases. If he lacks experience he will blunder all the time. Some of the candidates whose names are before the public are evidently deficient in one or the other of these particulars. Let me place before your readers a passage from Hobbs's Leviathan which is much to the point: "The things that make a good judge are first a right understanding of that principal law of nature called equity, which depending not on the reading of other men's writings but on the goodness of a man's own natural reason and meditation, is presumed to be in those most that have had most leisure and had most inclination to meditate thereon. Secondly, contempt of unnecessary riches and preferments. Thirdly, to be able in judgment to divest himself of all fear, anger, hatred, love and compassion. Fourthly and lastly, patience to hear, diligent attention in hearing, and memory to retain, digest and apply what he hath heard."

WASHINGTON.

Debate on the Northern Pacific Forfeiture Bill.

A CHINESE MEASURE PASSED.

The House Continues Consideration of the Oleomargarine Bill—The Edmunds Utah Bill—Washington News Items.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Senator Beck, introducing a bill to prohibit members of congress from acting as attorneys or employes of railroad companies that hold charters or have had grants from the United States, remarked that there had been much crimination and recrimination in both houses about the matter of members of congress being employed by railroad companies. The bill, he said, was intended to see if a remedy could be provided for the trouble.

Miller called up the bill extending the eight-hour law to letter carriers. He said the postoffice department had ruled that letter carriers were not entitled to come under the provisions of that law, but Miller saw no reason why these employes should not be put on an equality with other employes. The bill passed.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC BILL.

On motion of Dolph the senate resumed consideration of the Northern Pacific land grant forfeiture bill. Dolph, in defending the bill denied with emphasis the suggestion made by Van Wyck that the history of the bill showed it to be in the interest of the railroad company. If the senator from Nebraska insinuated what Dolph had seen substantially stated in some newspapers that he (Dolph) was in any manner connected with the Northern Pacific railroad company, or any other railroad company ever incorporated by act of congress, or to which any grant was ever made, or which had any interest whatever before congress, the statement of the senator from Nebraska was wrong. He (Dolph) never had a dollar's worth of interest in the Northern Pacific railroad company, nor had he ever had connection with that company; nor, since he had been a member of the senate, had he ever been counsel in any way for any corporation having any interest before congress. He would consider such a thing highly improper, and would be ready to support the bill this morning introduced by Beck. He (Dolph) did not believe it to be in the interest of the United States government to forfeit the Cascade grant to the Northern Pacific; but such forfeiture would be for the interest of the Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific. He affirmed that the amendment of the senator from Nebraska (Van Wyck) would be directly in the interest of the Union Pacific and other roads. This word "corporation," Dolph said, had the same effect on some people that a red flag had on a bull, and they proceeded to fight it, "horns down and tail up." [Laughter.] He was not of that number. That part of the Northern Pacific grant for whose forfeiture this bill provided, should be forfeited, but the amendment of Mr. Van Wyck would go too far. That was his opinion; and whenever the time came that he could not vote for what he believed to be just, and for what he thought best for the prosperity and glory of this great nation, he (Dolph) would not sit in the senate. A man might be a successful politician for a time by trimming his sails to accommodate every popular opinion, but in Dolph's opinion that course would not serve the best interests of the country.

THE BANKRUPTCY BILL.

At 2 o'clock the matter went over till to-morrow, and the bankruptcy bill was placed before the senate. After Hoar, by unanimous consent, had secured some verbal amendments to the bill, George moved to strike out all sections to provide for involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy. George said he was willing to vote for a bill that would allow an unfortunate debtor to start again in life by the surrender of his property and getting an acquittal. He argued that the effects of the bill on business in the southern states would be ruinous. He also objected to the bill because it permitted no preferences among creditors, such as was allowed by the laws of nearly all the states. It often happened that a man's condition, even in honor, required that he should give preference.

Hoar believed that the bill secured more favorable consideration for a debtor's interests than it was possible for the debtor to secure without the bill. Hoar moved to lay George's amendment on the table. Before announcement of the vote on this motion, it being clear that the result would be strongly against it, Hoar wished the bill postponed till to-morrow, and asked unanimous consent to that effect. Cooke objected.

The vote on Hoar's motion was ayes 14, nays 25, so the senate declined to lay George's amendment on the table. The bill then went over till to-morrow.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

Plumb offered the following resolution, which was referred to the committee on judiciary:

WHEREAS, There is now pending before the judiciary committee of the senate, senate bill No. 169, authorizing the use of public moneys in building branch lines of railroad by a company for the Union Pacific railroad company; and there is also pending before the same committee senate bill No. 235, authorizing said company to construct branch lines by means of stock and bonds issued on the same; and there is also pending before the senate, senate bill No. 1200, providing for extending payment of the debt owed by said company to the government for a long period of time; and

WHEREAS, It was charged on the floor of the senate Friday, May 28, that said Union Pacific railroad company had issued a large amount of fraudulent stock, which is still outstanding, adding to the burdens of the people who do business over said road; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the sense of the senate that no legislation affecting said railroad company should be considered till said charge, concerning a fraudulent issue of stock is thoroughly investigated; and the committee on judiciary of the senate is hereby directed to cause said charge to be investigated, and to make a full report thereon to the senate, and for that purpose is empowered to send for persons and papers and administer oaths, and the expenses of said investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the senate.

Before the reference of the resolution to a committee a suggestion of Van Wyck was accepted by Plumb, adding the words "and bonds" after the words "fraudulent stock."

A resolution offered by George was, at his own suggestion, allowed to lie over one day, providing for recommittal to the committee on judiciary of the bankruptcy bill, with instructions to so amend as to provide for voluntary proceedings only.

Plumb called up the conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill, and on his motion the senate insisted on its amendments and appointed Messrs. Plumb, Beck and Mahone as conference committee on the part of the senate.

On motion of Plumb the senate then took up the bill "to prevent the acquisition of real property by aliens." Plumb said he would personally prefer to have had a bill in some respects more restrictive than the present one, but the bill represented the views of the committee on public lands. The bill was passed.

CHINESE LEGISLATION.

Sherman called up the supplemental Chinese immigration bill, which explains the meaning of the original bills on the same subject passed in 1882 and 1884. The bill was passed as reported from the committee.

Sherman called up the bill to indemnify the Chinese for losses incurred by the riot at Rock Springs, Wyo. He said he regarded it as good policy, good Christianity and good humanity to reimburse the injured parties.

Cockrell and Mitchell opposed the bill and Edmunds favored it. Without action upon the measure, the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The house went into committee of the whole on the oleomargarine bill. The first amendment in order was that offered by Daniel of Virginia, abolishing the tobacco tax. It was rejected by a vote of 32 to 111. An amendment, also offered by Daniel, abolishing the tax on fruit brandy was rejected—28 to 121.

Dunham of Illinois offered an amendment reducing from 10 to 3 cents per pound the tax on oleomargarine.

Amendments were offered fixing the rate at 4 and 5 cents a pound, but they were rejected, only, however, after a couple of hours had been consumed in securing a quorum.

On motion of Hatch the amendment offered by Dunham was amended so as to fix the rate at 8 cents, and as so amended it was agreed to.

Browne of Indiana offered an amendment, exempting from the 8 cent tax oleomargarine which has been ascertained to be pure and wholesome, and which is sold under proper name; lost.

Dunham then moved to strike out the taxing section; lost, 30 to 131.

Parker of New York protested against the petitions presented by Messrs. Nagley and Curtin being regarded as an expression of sentiment of 75,000 workingmen. They were signed by the officers of the order, and not by the men themselves. Few persons could be easily reached, easily worked upon and easily induced to act in the matter.

Pending further action the committee rose. The speaker appointed Messrs. Blount, Riggs and Bingham as conferrees on the the postoffice appropriation bill. The house then adjourned.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

THE EDMUNDS UTAH BILL.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The house judiciary committee to-day considered the Edmunds Utah bill, and now hope to finish it at their next meeting. The southern members of the committee, with the exception of Chairman Tucker, are firmly opposed to the measure, mainly on constitutional grounds, and the concessions made by the majority in striking out sections of the bill as it came from the senate, creating United States trustees to take charge of the property of the Mormon church, have not been effectual in securing for the bill the support of these members. Many amendments have been added to the original bill, and others are under consideration, intended to make it more effective, and to reduce to a minimum the possibility of escape of polygamists from punishment through legal quibbles.

THE WORK OF A CRANK.

Some Person Imposes on an Eastern Firm with an Offer of Chinese Help.

CHICAGO, June 1.—A Troy, New York, special says: Several collar manufacturing concerns here have received postal cards containing the following proposition, signed by Bee, Chinese consul at San Francisco: "If you are desirous of replacing your worthless help with Chinese who are sober, industrious and non-striking, I will be ready to furnish, on short notice, from ten to twenty thousand Chinese who understand all branches of laundry work, at prices that will be suitable to your requirements.

A DENIAL BY BEE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—In reference to a special dispatch from Troy, N. Y., stating that Chinese Vice-Consul Bee in this city had offered to furnish Chinese as employes in laundries of that place, the Post this evening publishes an interview in which Col. Bee denies making said offer. He said: "I am tired of answering such foolish statements. I will agree to give $1,000 to the boycott fund if any such postal card sent by me can be found. It is a lie from beginning to end. The man who thought of it is a liar, the man who wrote it is a liar, the man who sent it is a liar, and it is a wonder the telegraph wires did not break when it came over them. This office is no intelligence office." Then he added, inconsistently: "Why would we want to send any Chinese away for outside of the vicious and criminal classes there are no Chinese out of employment. I have letters come every day from this coast, asking for Chinese help. To-day 700 were wanted, 500 of whom are to work on a railroad contract. We did not have them. All are employed now. That 'boycott' has not hurt a bit, and we don't intend to send any away at all."

CALIFORNIA.

THE BRIBERY CASE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The case Frank T. Northey, charged with an attempt to bribe the jury in the case of Mrs. Wright vs. The Geary Street Railroad, was up for preliminary examination to-day. H. T. Woods, one of the jurors alleged to have been offered a bribe testified that Northey called at his residence and offered him $250 to either hang the jury or bring in a verdict for not more than $1500. On cross-examination Woods said he had an interview with James McCord in regard to the matter, and that the latter stated that he was paying Northey for his part in the transaction. Woods further testified that he had not imparted this information to any one on the outside, but had publicly announced it in the jury room when the trial was in progress.

FROM CHINA AND JAPAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The steamer Sydney has arrived, bringing Hongkong dates to May 4 and Yokohama to May 4.

The U. S. steamer Ossipee arrived at Yokohama May 9, bringing back Watkins, absconding paymaster of that vessel, and Capt. Fullett, master of the schooner Arctic, on which vessel he attempted to escape, and from which he was taken near Hakodate. Fullett was put in jail and Watkins was held on board the Ossipee.

Fire almost entirely destroyed Akita, Japan, in the early part of May. It burned two days, and over 3000 houses were consumed. The loss is not stated.

REDUCTION IN SUGAR.

The California sugar refinery has made a half cent reduction on all grades of sugar.

J. W. Collins & Sons, the leading druggists of Newark, Ohio, say: "WASHBURNE'S SALICYLICA is without doubt the best remedy for Rheumatism and Neuralgia that we have sold since in the drug trade, which is over 23 years." Sold by Druggists.

OUR HARBOR.

PORTLAND, May 30, 1886.

That Portland will continue to be the principal city of the northwest coast, that she will grow steadily in size, wealth and commercial importance, few deny and a still smaller number doubt. Her position at the head of ship navigation, and at the same time at the focus of the principal transportation routes by rail and water, assures her steady growth in proportion as the population of Oregon and Washington increases; and such increase with our unequaled climate fertile soil, varied resources and recently opened routes of cheap and regular travel, must be rapid. Already immigrants are coming in at the rate of from thirty to eighty per day, and scattering over Oregon and Washington in search of homes. The population of Portland has nearly quadrupled in the last twelve years; that of the state and territory has almost doubled in the same period, while the statistics published by the board of trade and the chief of engineers, U. S. A., show the great advance in shipping within a still shorter time. Let those who complain of hard times as indicating cause for discouragement look at the number and character of buildings going up year after year here, and remember that they represent the confidence in the future of Portland, expressed practically by those who can to a great extent control the result and bring about prosperity—the solid men of the community—who have made their money here and are spending it here, making the growth of the city keep pace with the interests which center in her.

Of these interests the greatest is our foreign commerce, and that will prosper in proportion as our ships find easy approach to and safe moorings in our harbor. The first the government is caring for, and with most encouraging success, by deepening the channel and improving the bar of our outlet to the sea; the second, requiring accommodious harbor and plenty of wharf room, is for the community to look after; and by the community is meant here all who will profit by cheap freights and an active market, in fact every inhabitant of the country of which this is the business center.

Of wharf room there is no lack. From the foot of Swan island, or lower, to the Red house, on both sides of the river, a distance of twenty miles, there is space to moor 500 ships of average lengths; by building slips, where practicable, without encroaching too much on the navigation area of the river, as many more can be berthed; and a still larger number may be anchored out in the stream. But to make this abundant wharf room fully available the river must be kept as nearly free from obstructions as is compatible with frank passage from one side to the other. And here arises, as is usual where opposing interests meet, a question which will make endless trouble unless each side will show a fair spirit of concession. The water travel requires a free river; land travel demands bridges. The outcome will be that at least one bridge will be built, probably before very long; and we are all of us interested in seeing that its character and locality be such as to offer the least possible impediment to free and safe navigation. A bridge high enough to permit vessels to pass under it at all stages of water, with piers far enough apart to permit absolute freedom of movement with heavy tows, would not be an obstruction. A bridge of this hight would be out of the question here, owing to low banks. But a bridge can be built from Front street, on Columbia or Clay, passing over Water street on this side, and over the railroad on the east side, terminating on the plateau above high water, with a center hight sufficient to permit steamboats to pass under it at all stages by simply lowering their chimneys. No span should be less than 200 feet, except the draw spans which might be 150 feet. Such a bridge would probably meet with but little opposition from any source.

The object of this communication is simply to invite the public attention to a matter in which all are interested. No one is ignorant of the injury done to our commerce already by the Morrison street bridge, begun and left half built in the middle of the channel. It has simply destroyed the value of the wharves above Morrison street for shipping purposes. X.

THE DALLES RAILROAD SCHEME.

THE DALLES, May 30, 1886.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

"Warning," a correspondent in THE OREGONIAN of yesterday, declares that the scheme of building a portage road between The Dalles and Celilo by the state is dangerous to tax-payers and to state morals. He predicts that the road, (thirteen miles long) would cost $900,000. Is he crazy? Of course, if the state should undertake that work, plans and specifications should be made, and the work should be let by contract under heavy bonds, and the probability is that the work could be well done for less than $250,000. And as to its being a "continued tax upon the state for repairs and operating expenses" he is again very badly off. A crew of half a dozen men could operate the road as the crew of the boats could, and should load and unload freight on and from the road. As to that little road being a "source of robbery and corruption," I really don't see why the revenue from the road could not be collected as safely, with the proper guarantees, as could any other portion of the state revenue. "Warning" is certainly crazy or dyspeptic. He predicts that if this road is built others would be started, and that "they would lobby and log-roll themselves through legislatures." Don't he know that in this state, if we build such roads, we have got to pay as we go, as no indebtedness can be incurred, and that any legislator who proposes such schemes of roads as are not of urgent public necessity, and as would not be certain of reimbursing the treasury, would be consigned to oblivion. "Warning" has put up a man of straw and has got scared at it. The proposed road could be made a perfectly safe investment, and would be of incalculable public benefit. Of course, Pennoyer couldn't do anything about it of himself, as governor. ARGUS.

Woman's Face.

"What furniture can give such finish to a room as a tender woman's face," asks George Elliott. Not any, we are happy to answer, provided the glow of health tempers the tender expression. The pale, anxious, bloodless face of the consumptive, or the evident sufferings of the dyspeptic, induce feelings of sorrow and grief on our part and compel us to tell them of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the sovereign remedy for consumption and other diseases of the respiratory system as well as dyspepsia and other digestive troubles. Sold everywhere.

COMMERCIAL.

TUESDAY, June 1.

A decline of a quarter of a cent in sugars, all grades, was telegraphed just before noon. The San Francisco refiners are doubtless at outs.

The State of California brought $18,045 treasure.

The San Francisco city warehouses on the 1st inst. contained 12,000 tons wheat, 3100 tons barley and 1700 tons oats.

WHEAT—Foreign markets again cheaper. Recent arrivals of Pacific coast wheats have been largely in excess of sales and there is now an accumulation. Liverpool spot is lower. These advices have a depressing effect here and at San Francisco and values are tending lower. Quotations are now in large part nominal, $1 10@1 12½ for Walla Walla and $1 22½@1 25 for valley being deemed full figures.

OATS—Market easy and lower to sell in. Dealers have fair stocks and refuse to go above 38@40c for best feed. The shipping market is hardly over 35c.

POTATOES—Some old went to San Francisco by last steamer. Supplies here are now large at 50@60c per sack.

EGGS—Quote 12½c, with reports of sales at less. Receipts are not excessive and 12½c should be easily had.

WOOL—Evidently there is a better feeling throughout the West and the Pacific coast. Buyers appear to take hold more freely in spite of the unfavorable Eastern advices. Here the extreme for Eastern Oregon is advanced to 18c. This is on a full parity with Eastern prices as now quoted. It may be beyond the views of some and is probably not to be had for anything but extra choice. The West threatens to do much toward helping itself in the way of prices this season as it starts out well.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Governments were quiet and firm. Stocks opened up generally firm, at an advance of ¼ to ⅜, but soon yielded small fractions. After 1 o'clock there was a rally, and the highest prices were reached in the early part of the last hour, but realizing caused it to sag off, and final prices are a shade under the best of the day. The net result of the day's business is an advance for almost everything on the active list, but for only fractional amounts.

The Mail and Express says: The market for mining shares, though showing light dealings, appears to be attracting more attention. The Leadville shares are very strong, but holders show no desire to sell. Little Pittsburg is especially strong, and has recently been in good demand at much higher prices. Bulwer was in good demand at $2 20 bid. Horn Silver was higher. Rappahannock sold at 12, Union Consolidated 47, Bodie $1 50, Eureka $2 20, California & Virginia $1 50, Hale & Norcross $ 95, Savage $1 05, Sutro 11.

The City of Canton reached Queenstown May 26.

British bark Scottish Admiral sailed from Queenstown May 26 for Newcastle.

British ship Patterdale, from San Francisco reached Liverpool May 27.

The British bark Cross Hill sailed hence November 17 last for Queenstown, with a cargo of 32,949 centals wheat, cleared by Meyer, Wilson & Co. She has not yet reported out, and it is feared has met with disaster. The following is from a San Francisco paper: "A syndicate was formed on Wednesday which took $5000 on the over-due bark Cross Hill, the premium paid being 75 per cent." As the cargo was a straight one of wheat it is a little singular that so small a risk was asked for or accepted.

NOT FREE FROM RACE PREJUDICE.

PORTLAND, May 31.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

"Real Justice" says among other things that Mr. R. S. Strahan has no prejudice against any race.

Upon this proposition Mr. Strahan has a record. It is not a "campaign liar." Mr. Strahan was a member de facto, not de jure, of the state senate at the session of 1870. October 24, 1870, Mr. Trevitt introduced senate joint resolution No. 32. The resolution is long, consisting of nine sections, and I cannot ask you to give space for all of it. I quote a portion only of section 6:

"That the right to alter or amend the constitution belongs exclusively to the people of the state of Oregon, and any legislation or action on the part of the general government to accomplish that object is arbitrary and revolutionary; that the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments proposed by congress to the constitution of the United States were never constitutionally ratified, and therefore are no part of that instrument, and consequently are not entitled to observance and respect as such."

The following is the vote by which the resolution was adopted by the senate:

Yeas—Messrs. Baldwin, Brown of Baker, Cochran, Crawford, Hendershott, Holsclaw, Foult, Mosher, Newby, Strahan, Trevitt and Mr. President—12.

For proof of these statements see senate journal for 1870; page 696-701.

Remember, the fourteenth amendment, became the "law of the land" in 1868 and the fifteenth in February, 1869. Then, as now, they contained the only constitutional guarantee of civil or political rights to the colored race.

It seems to me that this vote of Mr. Strahan furnishes an excellent test both of his ability as a lawyer and his alleged freedom from race prejudice.

If he was honest in that vote, I have to presume his opinion as to the validity of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, as a senator would be still his opinion as a judge, and should the question come before him as a judge, he would decide as he voted. VERITAS.

A Quick Recovery.

It gives us great pleasure to state that the merchant who was reported to be at the point of death from an attack of Pneumonia, has entirely recovered by the use of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. Naturally he feels grateful for the benefits derived from using this remedy for the lungs and throat; and in giving publicity to this statement we are actuated by motives of public benefaction, trusting that others may be benefited in a similar manner.

AN ANSWER FROM MR. GOLDSMITH

PORTLAND, Or., June 1, 1886.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I have always refrained from ventilating private grievances through the public press, or in doing so, to mention names, but the attack upon me by "Justice," in his communication of May 2?, compels me in self-protection to ask your indulgence for once, and if this communication hurts the parties interested, I have the justification that they provoked me to it. They have not hesitated to use my name freely, hence I claim the same privilege.

I can conceive no greater evil for a community than to be afflicted with a syndicate of lawyers, who on technical grounds try to upset titles to land, and thereby rob the people of their homestead property; and when such a syndicate is assisted and supported in its nefarious schemes by some of the judges on the bench, from motives which the law forbids me to mention, then, indeed, the country is in a most deplorable condition; for to-day it may be I who am robbed, and to-morrow it may be my neighbor; and if the people allow such a state of affairs to exist, the time will surely come when we all will have to suffer for it for "Justice outraged, cries to Heaven."

My family and myself have been unjustly deprived of our property by a syndicate of lawyers, composed of Willis & Seneca Smith, and Gilliland, bookkeeper of the First National bank of this city, aided and abetted in this worst of judicial outrage by two of the judges of the supreme bench, one of whom has already been retired by an outraged public, and I hope the other will follow. But not content with the wrong done, they, like a certain similar class engaged in like work, set up the hue and cry of "stop the other man!" so as to draw attention in another direction. "Justice," in his communication, says that it is my desire to get another man than Waldo elected to the supreme bench, etc. In this for once he speaks the truth. I do desire it most heartily, and I can conceive of no greater service I could render to the people of Oregon than to succeed in my desire. When he says I am willing to sacrifice all other candidates on the democratic ticket to secure the election of Strahan, he prevaricates most outrageously and measures me by his own standard.

In his letter "Justice" is also pleased to call the locks and canal "Barney Goldsmith's lock and dam swindle." I am willing to leave it to the people of Oregon whether there was any swindle in the building of that grand work. I claim that in building the canal and locks I have done more good to the state and to the people of Oregon than all the Willises, Seneca Smiths, Gillilands and Waldos, their ancestors and descendants and all their branches and connections have done or ever will do.

To those who have no knowledge of the "true inwardness" of the Balch claim matter it may seem harsh to use such plain language, but to what conclusion can any fair-minded man come when property is taken away, amounting to many thousands of dollars, from the owners and given to other parties, and the court which takes it away, in plain violation of the constitutional provisions, fails to file any opinion or give any reason why the parties interested were divested of their property? For the first time in the history of our state the court fails to file an opinion or give any reason for reversing former well considered adjudications. Let us hope that it may be the last time that a court of this state is guilty of it. Respectfully,

B. GOLDSMITH.

...so thoroughly identified with Hood's Sarsaparilla is not a catch line only, but it is absolutely true of this preparation; and it is as absolutely true that it can honestly be applied only to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is the very best tonic medicine and blood purifier. Now, reader, prove it. Take a bottle home and measure its contents. You will find it to hold 100 teaspoonfuls. Now read the directions, and you will find that the average dose for persons of different ages is less than a teaspoonful. Thus economy and strength are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have been in poor health several years, suffering from indigestion, restlessness in the night and in the morning I would get up with a very tired feeling. After taking only a part of the first bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla I could rest well all night and feel refreshed when I woke up. I must say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is all it is recommended to be." DR. VANMONCISCAR!

THE WELL-KNOWN

SPECIALIST!

132, 134 Third St., Portland.

DR. VANMONCISCAR has made the treatment of Private Diseases of Men a special study and practice for thirty years. Over 4500 cases treated yearly. Recent cases of private diseases cured in [illegible] Ulcers, Humors and Blotches on Face or Body cured without giving Mercury or other Poisons. Mercury is the curse of the human race. Your children will suffer from its effects; avoid it as you would avoid any deadly drug, and use no more. These diseases are being cured at this Dispensary without mercury.

DR. VANMONCISCAR is a graduate of a regular Medical College, is well-known over the United States and Canada by thousands of old and young men he has cured, as it is a well-known fact that for years he has confined himself to the study and treatment of Sexual and Chronic Diseases, thus giving him advantages few possess. Dr. Vanmonciscar addresses himself particularly to those who have already tried various physicians and remedies from whom they have received no benefits, and who, in fact, have done them more harm than good. Medicine, like all other sciences, is progressive, and every year shows proof of its advance. By a combination of remedies of great curative power, Dr. Vanmonciscar has so arranged his treatment that it will afford not only immediate relief, but permanent cures.

Young Men who are suffering from the effects of youthful indiscretion, showing some of the following symptoms: Nervous and Physical Debility, Impotency (nocturnal), Lost Manhood, Abuses of the system, Exhausted Vitality, Confusion of Ideas, Dull and Loss of Brilliancy to the Eye, Aversion to Society, Despondency, Pimples on the Face, Loss of Energy, and Frequency of Urinating. You may be in the first stages, but remember you are fast approaching the last. Do not let false pride and sham modesty deter you from attending to your ailments. Many a bright and naturally gifted young man, endowed with genius, has permitted this case to run on and on, until remorse racked his intellect and finally death claimed its victim. Remember that "Procrastination is the thief of time." Set aside false pride, and consult one who thoroughly understands your ailment, and who will know your case, and effect permanent relief for an ailment that has made life a drudgery and night hideous. Thousands upon thousands of men in good standing in the social world, of prominence in the world, are to-day suffering from the fruits of their doings, the seeds of which were sown during moments of thoughtlessness. Young man, turn and gaze upon thy complexion or see the mirror for proofs to substantiate this fact. If he could be control the arm of Fate or [illegible] to live over again, then I could not appeal to you more sincerely. Let your mind wander back to the much cherished counsels of a loving father, and remember what you are to-day. Though you may for the present fill your station in society, the time is an inevitable as fate when your brilliancy will, like a flash, depart, leaving you a stranded wreck—desolate, forgotten and lost; so embrace the opportunity and enjoy life and happiness longer. If you claim to be a man, act your part manly. Do not console yourself with the thought that Nature will help itself, for in doing so you but only fan the flame that wreck Nature and yourself. Remember: "Large oaks from little acorns grow;" "Little ills germinate fatal diseases."

Middle-aged Men, married or single, who are prematurely old, as a result of excesses or youthful follies, and who are troubled by too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and finding a deposit of ropy sediment in the urine, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will first be of a thin or milkish hue and again changing to a dark or torpid appearance, causing nervous debility and loss of vitality. Remember, this is the second stage of Seminal Weakness. In all such cases a perfect cure is guaranteed, and a radical restoration of the Genito-Urinary Organs. All interviews and letters are sacredly confidential. Medicines packed so as not to excite curiosity, and sent by express, if full description of case is given; but the personal interview in all cases preferred. Patients treated by case or monthly. Call early, and avoid crowding. Office hours: 9 A. M. to 8 P. M.; Sundays, 10 A. M. to 2 P. M.
